The Teka Brock Band confirmed as Thursday Night Entertainment at the NRA Rodeo Finals

Billings, MT (January 3, 2010) — The Thursday night entertainment is now confirmed for the first concert of the Northern Rodeo Association Finals. The Teka Brock Band looks to kick off the NRA Finals with their new style of country music and dynamic performances. Tickets for Thursday's Rodeo and concert are $12 for the public.

The Teka Brock Band concert will be new and exhilarating style of country music that is set to bring out the funk side of country and rodeo fans. Even though the band has only been together for a short time, their music has already gained an interesting nickname describing their style "Hillhippie Slamgrass." "We are excited that with the success of the NRA Finals to offer a Thursday night concert kicking off our exciting championship rodeo and concerts," says Ty Yost, President of Yost events and producer of The NRA Finals. "The Teka Brock Band is a new and local country band from Montana with a unique sound which sets them apart from other country bands."

Teka Brock grew up on a small ranch in eastern Montana; it was there that she sang the National Anthem at rodeos in which she competed. This local band is set to perform an exciting concert filled with their unique music which is a mixture ranging from bluegrass to funk. Still in the process of finishing their first album, their current songs are gaining them many fans with their songs "I Wanna Live Like Elvis," "I'm Your Man," "The Weatherman," and "Daddy Doesn't Pray Anymore."

The NRA Rodeo Finals will be held at The Rimrock Auto Arena on February 18-20 and tickets are now on sale starting at $15. Tickets can be purchased at the Metra Park box office or by calling 406-256-2422 or toll free 800-366-3588. The concert is free with the purchase of your Rodeo ticket.
